

The Order of the Arcus

HERALD :

From ancient times, commanders have prized those warriors who can strike down the enemy from a distance. Carrhae, Falkirk, Agincourt... these battles and more bear witness to the effect that an archer's prowess on the field of combat may have upon an army's fortunes. Esteemed by allies, often cursed by foes, those who display this skill with grace and honor in the face of the enemy are worthy of renown.

Therefore was created the Order of the Arcus, to honor those individuals whose skill at archery upon the war field and whose praiseworthy demeanor bring compliment to themselves and glory to Caid. And so do Their Majesties call before them, N.

Promissory: N., well pleased by the prowess and elegance you have displayed at the art of combat archery, We are pleased to admit you to the Venerable Order of the Arcus. By Our hand this (n)th day of (month), Anno Societatis (year). K., Rex Caidis, Q., Regina Caidis
